ATLANTA, Georgia — Managing last mile deliveries may seem easier than moving goods across the world. However it's still essential for these deliveries to be tracked and backed by the best technologies possible, according to 3PD Chief Information Officer Jonathan Turner, who shared his take on last-mile's six most essential IT tools in the January/February issue of Parcel magazine.

"It may rock the corporate boat to request more advanced hardware and software funding for this function," said Turner in his article. "But if our experience is any indication, it's a move you, your company and your customers will never regret."
